YUCCA

Seeing them first by ful moonlite,
Tall as tapers and waxy white,
Men of the cross, men of the sord
Caidd them the Candies of the Lord.

Conquistadores, helmeted, booted,
Dreaming of golden cities, looted,
And brown-robed padres, sandal shod
Counting the soals they wud bring to God,
Seeing them first wen the moon was hy
And hills roze tall on a western sky,
Stood by the trail, their faces aglow,
Long miles behind them,
Long miles tu go,

With mountans to clym and canyons to ford,
And caidd them "The Candies of the Lord."

In This Issue:

In adission to the latest Missiv, this month brings to our website the 4th installment of my adventure, "How I Got Into This Work", the story as I told it to my yung tenant Joel Arvan, who was curius about the exciting things that happend wen I first started cultivating the gift of proffecy.

Also in Fun Action I giv u this month a simple Halloween art project, easi enuf for the yungest toddler to handle with help, but can be adapted for scools, teenagers and up. Ad goasts & monsters at will.

For a sutable Halloween sentiment, how about the folloing?

Wen on erth the deth angels outpor Their grim vyals, we'l ask them, wot for?
They may say,
"Yu'r so bad,
Is scur God has had it;
Yu dont get to liv here no mor!"

Further Notes:

This month we giv u another hidden picture puzzle from my Augsburg series: "A Book for Each One," with African animals for kids and grownups to fynd. Look in Fun and Action for it.

Later we me may get intu politics, a grait interest of mine - hu knoes?

Anna's Hummingbird, Male

Of the 14 kynds of hummingbirds in the U.S., only the Anna's has a song, and it is the only one we hav in Southern California. The song is a scrachy little squeak. The male also duz a steep dive with a pop at the end, like opening a vacuum-pakd can or bottle.

Our reecent rains ar bringing the Cape Honeysuckle, shown here, into bloom, so the birds ignor my feeder. In years past I had 6 at a time at the feeder rite next to my face. Sorry tu say they ar mean little birds, tho - even the feemales with their wite-banded tail. They drive each other off mercilessly.

Announcing Missiv # 99 for October 2009 SCHIZOPHRENIA

Frends - This month I am taking up a prickly subject. I took my BA & MA in psychology, from Bryn Mawr College & University of Minnesota respectivy, and hav kept up pritty wel with the subject since then. So as u may imajin, I am familiar with the convencional thinking in the profession concerning people hu hear voices 'on the inner.' The conventional thinking is that this is insanity.
